

The latest news from General Grant is contained in the brief dispatch of Secretary Stanton of this forenoon, in which there is a meager and unsatisfactory account of the assault on the rebel lines made by our forces on yesterday morning. It will be observed that General Grant does not claim any particular advantage, nor does he acknowledge any serious loss, while another dispatch puts our loss at 3,000, including several valuable officers, and among them Col. Frank Haskell of the 36th Wisconsin. The 36th only left the State a few weeks ago, but has already seen some of the dread realities of war and lost its gallant Colonel.

The army of the Potomac has now been a month across the Rapidan, and has fought its way, inch by inch, down to the very gates of the rebel capital, without meeting with what can be termed a serious disaster or repulse. Let any man calmly consider the more than herculean labor the army has already performed and he will gather hope and encouragement for the future.

The situation is eminently hopeful, and yet we must not forget that Mars is a fickle god, bestowing his favors sometimes in an unlooked for direction. Lee evidently intends to fight one more great battle before he retires to his entrenchments in and around Richmond.

Rev. J. M. Springer, chaplain of the 3d regiment, was mortally wounded at the battle of Raseca, while fighting heroically in the ranks, and died at Nashville recently. He was a Methodist clergyman and formerly worked at the printing business. He was drafted and refused to let his congregation commute for him. A noble, heroic man, gone where there is neither slavery nor traitors.

The affairs in Arkansas are in a most deplorable condition. Guerrillas are reported to be swarming in that State and there is talk of evacuating all except Little Rock and Helena.

Secretary Chase is reported to have sold a million of dollars in gold at 90 and 91 per cent. premium.

Gold closes to-day at 90.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Tribune, writing from Montreal on the 28th ult., the day after Mr. Giddings' death, says that though his death was sudden, it was not unexpected. On Saturday, the 21st, Mr. Giddings sent for the writer and told him that he felt his end was rapidly approaching, and gave him several letters which he wished him to keep until after the event. On Sunday and Monday he appeared to rally under medical treatment and on Wednesday he began to write an essay upon private claims (at the request of the Secretary of the Treasury) to the Hon. Mr. Washburne, of the House of Congress. After he had finished he wished the writer to read it to him, again and repeatedly remarking that he felt convinced his death was close at hand, seeming fully impressed with the fact of his near departure. He often said that he had not the least fear of death, and was prepared for the change when it would come. He said he wished to die in harness, like his old friend John Quincy Adams.

A WASHINGTON correspondent writes to the Cincinnati Gazette under date of Wednesday last: Horace Greeley was on the floor of the House to-day. Some of the Democrats were very much horrified when they saw the philosopher over the sill, and still more when they saw the speed with which Fernando Wood, James Brooks and other New Yorkers started forward to greet him, but the straight way when Fernando Wood brought forward Alexander Long to present him to the veteran of the Tribune.

Mr. Greeley answers all inquiries that he is going to none of the political conventions this year; that the only convention he is much interested in, is the one Grant is holding before Richmond. He died a long interview with most of the Administration leaders.

THE WIDOW of the late Ex-President John Tyler has written to President Lincoln complaining that Gen. Wild has arrested a slave owner who had been flogging his female chattels, and that the General had had him tied, and permitted the woman to repay the blows with interest. Mrs. Tyler is indignant that a Virginia gentleman should have been treated thus.

But Mrs. Tyler is not indignant that a Virginia woman should be treated thus: not that we know of.

SOME of the Republican papers suggest the name of Simon Cameron, of Pennsylvania, as a suitable person to place upon the Union ticket for Vice-President.

We hope that whatever else the Baltimore convention may do, it will not so degrade the honest portion of those whom it represents as to place Mr. Cameron on the Union ticket. He is so rotten, figuratively and politically speaking, that a buckskin shirt is needed to hold the old fellow together. That he is now upon the surface at all is upon the principle that putrefaction has taken place, and he swims.

WINTER DAVIS has prepared a long report from the Committee on Foreign Relations, severely censuring Seward's correspondence on the Mexican question. Only one member of the committee opposed the resolutions, eight favoring them.

Gov. CORWIS has hastened home on account of illness in his family. He will not be in Washington for some time.

STATE NEWS.

The Grant County Witness says Mr. P. D. Hendershot has lost six horses during the past five weeks from hardly explainable causes. It is a singular fatality that takes off six horses out of eight, from the same owner, in so short a period. Mr. H. has a couple of stage lines, has nearly had his business broken up by his bad luck. He is replenishing his stock with mules, hoping to be more fortunate with these tough and hardy quadrupeds. The Green Bay Advocate says Andrew E. Elmore and family have arrived in town, and permanently located here. We welcome the "sage." There is plenty of room for him to spread himself here and flourish like a "green bay tree." He will be near his business, farther from Madison, and in good company. Yes, the farther Andrew E. is from Madison the better, especially during the season of the legislature. A Waukesha correspondent writes that the drought is becoming quite a serious affair with us. Hay will probably be light—grass of every kind is suffering—vegetables are and will be scarce. Fruit will be much less than an average crop. Currants and gooseberries may do pretty well, but peaches, pears and plums will be almost a failure. Our strawberries are suffering greatly for want of rain, and apples will not give more than half a crop. The Milwaukee News says the arrangements for establishing a Union Railroad depot in Milwaukee have been completed by the purchase of the property for depot grounds. The land purchased comprises three separate parcels, the whole amounting to between forty and fifty acres, located on both sides the Menomonee river, just south of the Menomonee bridge. The first parcel of land was owned by Messrs. Luddington, Mariner and the heirs of Moses Knoeland, and was bought for $54,000. The second parcel consisted of lots held by Alexander Mitchell jointly for himself and for Messrs. Tweedy, Eldred and Flanders, and was bought for $60,000. The third parcel was owned by Daniel Wells and others and was bought for about $20,000—making the total cost about $134,000. The depot will be located west of Reed street. Piles are now being driven a little south of the proposed depot grounds for the new mammoth elevator. The whole purchase alluded to above was made in the name of the Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company.

ON SUNDAY, the 30th ult., two soldiers had a fight with eight or ten Indians, near Peterson, Clay county, Iowa, which is 45 miles west of south of Spirit Lake. They were attached to the garrison at that post, and were sent out on a scout, when they were confronted by an Indian, who fired at one of them named Whitlock, when seven others stepped out and fired, frightening his horse, which threw him. One large Indian, in advance of the others, then attacked Whitlock with a knife, stabbing him in the back and left arm. W. clinched with the Indian, took his knife from him, and killed him. By this time he got out his revolver and shot another Indian. A third Indian now attacked him, but McKieley, who had gone after Whitlock's horse, now returned and shot the savage, whereupon the others made their escape. They then returned to the post, when Whitlock's wounds were dressed.

THE CLEVELAND Convention is the first gathering of the kind, we believe, that ever went through the motions of nominating candidates for President and Vice President both from the same State. Generals Fremont and Cochrane are both residents of the State of New York, and one or the other must move out before the electoral vote of that great State can be cast for them, as will be seen by the following clause in the Constitution: "The electors chosen by the voters of each state shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves."

GENERAL BUTLER—Gen. Gilmore has denied the statement that he urged on Gen. Butler the fortifying of the position: we had taken inside the outer lines of Fort Darling, which General Butler refused to permit. Thereupon the N. Y. Evening Post has retraced the charge made against Gen. Butler of sacrificing that position and his expedition by his blunder. All the stories about disagreements between Gen. Butler and his subordinates appear to be fabrications.

A BURGLAR entered the residence of Secretary Chase last Wednesday night and stole his gold watch and $40 in green backs.

A SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.—The Rochester Union calls attention to the curious fact that Grant's crossing the Pamunky and occupation of Hanover town, and the battle of Hanover Court House fought by the 5th Corps under Fitz John Porter occurred on the same day of the month, two years apart—May 27th.

RATIO AND PROFIT.—The New Hampshire Journal of Agriculture says in an article on corn culture: "The ratio of profit in cultivated crops, is, we imagine, not very clearly understood by many. Or if understood is not kept in view. We estimate 45 bushels to the acre will pay twice as much profit as 30 bushels to the acre. Add fifteen bushels more, which would make 60 bushels, and the profit three times as much as at 30 bushels. To the man who raised small crops is always at the short end of the lever. Or at any rate, is working his lever without a fulcrum, which is up hill business at the best."

LOCAL MATTERS.

The Chickahominy. In reviewing the military situation in Virginia, the Chicago Post has the following in relation to the Chickahominy river: "If the Chickahominy is intended by Lee as the last line of defense, the position has been well chosen. The stream itself is peculiarly adapted to the defensive warfare. The river is a small one, and flows sluggishly. It divides itself into a half dozen streams, running into and out of each other at random. These smaller streams occupy a space about evenly yardwise with the main stream, and are covered by the water, and the entire stream is covered by a thick growth of trees. It is a remarkable instance of a river running through and watering a long strip of woods. From each side of this woodland a flat surface extends for about half a mile. This is nearly always overflowed, and becomes an impassable morass. It is only when the water in the river is very low that men can safely walk upon the ground bordering it. On these flat surfaces there is not a solitary tree. They are bare, and anything moving upon them can easily be discerned. From the borders of these plains, huge hills, in some cases two or three hundred feet high, abruptly rise. They are covered with thick woods, and are so steep that wagons cannot be hauled directly up their face. The few roads go down them diagonally to the bridges, across the swamp and river. This Chickahominy valley, one of the strangest in America, is the outer defense of Richmond. From the tops of the hills on the one side, across the swamp to the hill-tops on the other side, the distance varies from a mile to a mile and a half. The ordinary twelve-pounder rifled Napoleon gun can just about throw a shell from one hill-top to the other. From the Fredericksburg Railroad crossing down to New Bridge, a distance of eight miles, the confederate works are all along the hill on its southern border.

GLUM CONDITION OF RICHMOND.—Grand gloomy, peculiar and "unruffled" as the bosom of Jehovah, after a simon, the city continued on yesterday to demonstrate its placidity under the difficulties inflicted on its patience by the powers that be. The stores remain shut up. Male and female institutions of learning, whose tutors could bear markets, remain closed. The families of poor militiamen continue to mingle anthems and tears with their borrowed crusts. The markets present a miserable array of "something to eat," and the extortioners, one of the scourges, continued to swell their profits, and block the wisdom of those in authority. Petersburg, bombarded in front and rear, cut off from the world, and languishing under her severest trials, presented no such "supernatural picture as Richmond does to-day." The people have grown sick of the wrongs inflicted upon them within the brief space of a few weeks, and he sure that they will treasure them up.—Richmond Examiner, May 26.

DIED.

In Decease, N. Y., on Friday morning, May 27th, Mrs. ELIZABETH CHAPMAN, wife of F. L. Chapman, formerly of this city. May 28th, in the city of Hartford, at the residence of her son, John H. Chapman, of this city, WALTER L. JOURNAL, son of Dr. Jos. Morrill, aged 19 years, 3 months and 18 days. Also, June 2d, of the same disease, AMY E. daughter of Dr. J. H. Young, aged 15 years, 3 months and 15 days. O, there are days of many rest For every day and troubled night; And grief may hide an evening smile; But joy shall come with early light. And then, who ever thy friend's low bier Sheddeth the bitter drops like rain, Hope that a brighter, happier sphere, Will wait thee when thy soul's again. For God hath marked each faithful day; And Heaven's ledger of life shall pay For all his children's earlier care. (Communicated.)

THE WAR IN VIRGINIA.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A dispatch from the Army of the Potomac, dated 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, says: Gen. Binney's division advanced against a breastwork held by Breckenridge's corps on the south side of the Totopotomoi on a high eminence—a very strong position, and one which might have been easily held against a vastly superior force. The enemy, after firing a round or two, and seeing a determination to take the place, evacuated and retreated to the woods. Our loss about 25.

We took about 50 prisoners, mostly belonging to Breckenridge's command, some of whom said they were in the Valley in the fight with Gen. Sigel, but did not have to fight as stubbornly as they did here.

An attempt to turn the rebel left last night, and the attempt to cut us off from the White House, our new base of supplies, were defeated with considerable loss on both sides.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The steamer Key Boat arrived this afternoon, having left White House at noon yesterday. Parties who came up on board state that heavy cannonading was heard there when they left, indicating an engagement was in progress.

A cavalry man who came in from the front to the White House reported the 6th corps was engaged, having brought it on by a rapid and sudden movement from the left to the right.

Several regiments of negro troops, doubtless a portion of Butler's forces, were being landed at the White House when the Key Boat left.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Dispatches from the army of the Potomac dated Tuesday night, say that the day before the 5th corps advanced from Haines's Store toward Bethesda Church, and drove the enemy about 2 miles. At sunset while our men were engaged in digging rifle pits, Rhodes and Early's divisions made an attack on Warren's right flank, causing him to fall back from his first line. The enemy then advanced and charged 2d line. Ketchum's brigade of heavy artillery was posted there and opened heavy fire in conjunction with batteries on both sides, which nearly demolished the rebel column of attack. The enemy fell back in terrible disorder, and left their dead and wounded behind them.

New York, June 4.—Herold's correspondence from Headquarters of the cavalry corps, details a cavalry engagement on Monday, at Cold Harbor. The engagement was brought on by both parties attempting to establish a line of pickets. Gens. Devin and Merritt went in with zeal and drove the rebels to the first woods, then dismounted; three quarters of their men, leaving the others in charge of the horses, and pressed through the woods on foot, and across ravines, and creeks and over the next pell mell into the woods. As they were going up the hill, Williston opened upon them with his guns, and having reached the woods, the enemy made another stand; supported by reserves, Merritt and Devin maintained their ground stubbornly, and contested every inch until the lines were within eight rods of each other, neither yielding, and both suffering great slaughter. Costar with his demoralizing 7 shotguns were now ordered up to aid in routing the rebels out of the woods.

Sheridan also came on the field where he could observe matters requiring his direction. Costar dismounted his men who moved forward at a double quick, and in less than 15 minutes, the rapid crack, crack, of the Spencer rifles was heard, and the 1st N. Y. dragoons charged in with them. The enemy doubtless thought that 10,000 men at least had reinforced their opponents, for they fled two or three miles, leaving their dead and wounded on the field. Torbett followed them up and spent the night four miles in advance. Another fight occurred on Tuesday. As Merritt's brigade was pressing toward Cold Harbor in the afternoon, they came upon the enemy's cavalry reinforced by three regiments of North Carolina infantry. Merritt picked into them with his regulars, and was strongly supported by Devin and Costar.

The fight was even more desperate than that of yesterday. Sheridan galloped to the front, but found Torbett whipping them beautifully. This action gave us Cold Harbor, and if Lee is at Mechanicsville as is supposed, it very nearly turns his right flank, and a great point has been gained.

The Herald's correspondent from the James River fleet says a deserter from the rebel rank Richmond states that Fort Darling, mounting 50 heavy guns, is considered by the rebels impregnable to the gunboats. Three iron-clads are now lying before the Fort preparing to attack our fleet, aided by several "fire" ships and a number of infernal machines. The fire ships are to be drifted down to our vessels in flames. Closely following will be torpedoes to explode on reaching our boats, and in the excitement the rebel iron-clads are to make the attack. The rams are plated eight inch iron, three feet solid oak, and each has a peak several feet long with a powerful sub-marine battery.

New York, June 4.—The Times' headquarters' special, Tuesday

A Split Wanted.
It is amusing to observe the deep interest which the copperhead organs manifest in the political power recently held in Cleveland. The Milwaukee News is never weary in setting forth its vast and overwhelming importance, and has the cheek to say that "the convention was made up of the very bone and sinew of the Republican party. Many of them helped to make up that party, and all of them have been recognized leaders in it." The Chicago Times sees in it the root of that vine whose branches are to overshadow the whole North; while the N. Y. World, in the glowing imagery of copperhead rhetoric, declares it to be "a great mass convention affording the masses of the Republican party the only opportunity of freedom of action with regard to the Presidency." Another paper represents it as the general uprising and manly protest of the honest and patriotic portion of the anti-slavery party of the loyal States. And so they are never weary of magnifying the importance of what a few score-headed gentlemen of no sort of influence whatever in the political world, did the other day at Cleveland.

This copperhead anxiety in relation to so harmless and unimportant a movement, is natural enough, but it denotes no one, nevertheless. They imagine that Fremont will divide the Republican party as he parts his hair, in the middle, and in that way enable them to slip their man into the White House. They know full well that with but one united Union party at the North, McClellan stands no more chance of an election than some of his adherents do of getting into heaven; and hence they are looking about for a wedge with which to split the Republican party, and think they have found it in the Cleveland Convention.

But it is a basswood wedge that will not drive.

The London Times on the Ladies' Economic Movement.
The London Times devotes a good deal of space to a sarcastic view of the economical, non-importation project of American ladies. The article concludes as follows: Addison gives a humorous account of a very quire whom he met by chance in a country ride, and who maintained, over a bowl of punch, to which he was evidently addicted, that England would do very well if it would content itself with its own productions and not depend upon foreigners. Addison remarks that in his great discomfiture, that the favorite drink he was enjoying the water was the only constituent part of English production, and that the brandy, the lemon, the spice and the sugar were all foreigners. The American ladies, still more the American gentlemen, will, we imagine, be in very much the same predicament as the quire. We shall wait with some anxiety to see the sequel of this heroic resolution, or whether it has any at all. As far as the men are concerned, we are quite certain that merchants may continue to import cigars, liquors and wines without the slightest alteration. An American without a cigar, is about as possible a metamorphosis as an Ethiopian with a white skin; and the probability of an abandonment of imported wines may be judged of from the fact that in his late defeat Gen. Banks "lost his language and his campaign." When generals, in difficult marches over a hostile country, find champagne a necessary addition to their baggage, the chance of a New York merchant abandoning imported wines must be infinitesimal. It is to be feared the habits of the ladies will in the same way prove too strong for them. American taste will be to that of Paris as "Jersey lightning" to Cognac, and will stand the same chance against it. If it were possible, though, one would be glad to see the experiment well tried for the sake of its absurdity. There is something like a burlesque in the notion of the principal ladies of the smartest nation under the sun carrying out in broad daylight the middle-headed fancy of a country quire of George the First's time. What can be said of a people where the wives of ex-presidents, Vice-presidents, Senators and Representatives can seriously hold a large meeting in the capital city, in the very crisis of the war, and act out this extravagant piece of half mad, half smart bombast? What can we expect from the men whose wives, daughters and mothers can find no other public exercise of feminine qualities than this bizarre and tricky patriotism? If it were possible to forget the terrible sacrifices of human life that is involved in the great struggle, and the great issues to history which hang upon its result, one would be disposed to treat the whole scene as one grand pantomime, where the only object is to outface absurdity with absurdity, and to avoid the easy excitement of spectators the anticipated and intended crash.

JACKSON'S ADVICE TO A NAMESAKE.
The New York Tribune publishes a letter written by Andrew Jackson in 1837, regretting his inability to visit New York city and officiate as godfather at the baptism of a namesake. He adds the following wishes for his young friends welfare, which will be read with interest:

"I enclose herewith the usual gift to this that I have to all my others—it bears the impress of the Eagle of his Country, displayed all her life and wisdom have to depend upon you to explain to him with his infirmities of the goldfather, that when he arrives at the years of manhood he will always be found sustaining the Eagle of his country from insult, or grasp, of a foreign foe, and the still more dangerous enemy, the intestine traitor who may engage in the wicked scheme of severing our glorious Union, upon which depends the perpetuation of our happy Government, which will endure so long as our confederated system lasts, and no longer. Infill in his mind that our Federal Union must be preserved. To the patriotism of his dear parents I trust this lesson will be early impressed, with all moral virtues, on his mind.

"But, not so conquered."—The Union Herald chronicles the death of Capt. Bingham, of the 11th New York Volunteers, and says that when he fell on the field, mortally wounded and his company were compelled to leave him, he waved his hat to them, shouting, "Go on boys, and give it to them? I am hit, but not conquered!"

The Venetian chamber of notaries has just rejected an invitation made by the government to admit to that body persons of Jewish religion.

From the 2nd Cavalry—Painful News.
(From the Milwaukee Sentinel.)
Editors: Signed Below I hand the substance of a letter just received from my son in Missouri, which must interest many beyond his and my particular circle of acquaintance.
Yours, &c.,
LEVI BERNELL.

DEAR FATHER:—To-day has been the saddest day for this command over known. We have escorted to their graves five of our brave companions.

Day before yesterday a detail came for a Sergeant and ten men, to report to the Provost Marshal for duty. I made the detail early in the morning; he sent them off after some contraband horses, about 25 miles. They arrived at the place indicated, found the horses and heard that there were more at the next house, about a mile distant. The Sergeant left six men in charge of those already captured, and with the other four started for the house up the road. The Sergeant and party not returning on time, the others started for them; not finding them, they followed to another house where it was said they intended to go; but getting no trace of them started for camp, and arrived about midnight.

Yesterday a scout of thirty, under Lieut. Davidson, started in pursuit, bound to find them, dead or alive. Last night, at midnight, we were awakened at our tent by a man in charge of six of the tent, sent back with the bodies of the five men. They were found in a grove about a mile from the road, fairly shot to pieces; some shot through and through, and cut with knives. The facts in the case, as near as we can get at them, are these: After the boys left the house, and had got about a mile, they met fifteen men in Federal uniform, who rode up close to them, drew revolvers from their belts and said, "The first man that raised a finger they would shoot," while one rode up and took away all their arms. They then took them to this grove, and as it is supposed, though no one there has seen any thing, started to hang them, or something of that kind. The boys saw they were gone up, so pitched into them (fifteen), with their fists and died fighting. This, we can see, must have been, as their knuckles are all bruised, one's shoulder broken, and everything around shows struggle for life; and their being shot in so many directions proves that they were actively moving about. Pieces of rope were found lying there. The Lieutenant and scout have not yet returned.

The funeral was very largely attended, and there were few dry eyes at the grave, as they were all good boys. The sergeant, LeGrand Carter, in particular, was beloved by every one in the battalion. He was a noble man. It will be an awful blow to his wife. He was married while on a furlough a month ago, to a very fine young lady. They say it will kill her. It is awful.

We send out a Lieutenant and 40 minute men to-morrow morning at 7 o'clock. The boys as well as the officers are thoroughly aroused, and there is great excitement all over town.

From your affectionate son,
SAM. L. BERNELL.

Since the above letter was written seventy men of the 2d Cavalry have been gobbled up by guerrillas, but what their fate has been is at present unknown. The company in that regiment from this county, is at Vicksburg or in that vicinity.

RELIGIOUS MISCELLANY.
SABBATH MUSINGS.—The first day of the week! What a glorious fact is brought to our remembrance by the return of this day. More than eighteen hundred years ago to-day, the Lord of life and glory burst the bars of death, and rose triumphantly from the grave, and so showed to a fallen world what was in His power to do for it.

O blessed day! that recalls to our remembrance all that our Saviour has done for us; how He, in His innocence, suffered indescribable agony, in order to obtain pardon for guilty man; how He, though "rich," yet for our sakes became poor, that we through His poverty might be made rich; how He "left all the glory that He had with the Father before the world was," and came to earth to suffer for the most ignominious death, that poor, alienated, ruined mortals might have life eternal; how He was wounded for our transgressions, and "bruised for our iniquities;" how the wicked Jews laughed and mocked when they beheld His indescribable sufferings, and vainly exulted when they saw His body laid in the cold cheerless tomb, while His few followers went quietly away to mourn in secret the death of Him whom they had "hoped was to redeem Israel."

But how was the scene changed, when two more suns had set and risen, and life, over whom there was mourning on one side, and rejoicing on the other, burst the fetters of the grim monster, and stepped forth in triumph from His dreary prison-house.

Oh! how strange it is people will be so negligent in their observance of this day, which commemorates an event of such infinite importance to the human race. We are rapturous in our exclamations over the day that commemorates the declaration of our national Independence, but how cold brings to our ears the words of the victor over that tyrant before which the mightiest of earth's monarchs are compelled to lay down their scepters. What a glorious conquest was made then! and how soul-cheering the hope that it affords us, that if we will accept Christ's offered mercy, Death has no shackles strong enough to bind us; but that we shall only "lay aside these vile bodies" to have them raised again after a while, and "fashioned like unto Christ's most glorious body."

THE FEELINGS OF JOY.—Here, the vessel is too capacious to be filled with the pleasures and delights the world can lay together. Hereafter, our pleasures and delights shall be too full for the most capacious vessel to comprehend. Our glory shall be so great that power as well as goodness shall come forth from God himself to renew and enlarge these vessels, that they may be made capable to receive and to retain their glory; therefore, God will bear us up. And because our joys cannot fully enter into us, we shall fully enter into them. Who would then set so large a vessel as the soul under a few drops of carnal pleasure, and neglect the spring of everlasting joy? O, my soul! what a glorious day there is coming when the vessels of mercy shall be cast in the ocean of mercy, and be filled to the brim! When the ocean of pleasure shall drink their fill at the torrents of mercy, and be so forever down by the river of life. When the soul that is sick of love shall lie down in the bosom of love and forever take its fill! When the children of God shall have a full fruition of God, and he forever satisfied with the presence of God! Lord, let the thoughts of joy and glory that Thou hast prepared for me turn my heart from the vanities of earth, that I may be pressing on to Thee, into Thy very presence, where is fullness of joy, and Thy right hand, where are pleasures for evermore.
—Divine Breakings.

Native Wines.—Sacred History abounds in allusions to wine, and as there are thirteen distinct Hebrew terms used in the Bible to distinguish vintages of different kinds, "condition and ages, it is evident that the "ancient people" were no less particular in the matter of "brands" than are the people of the present day. The Greek and Romans had two hundred varieties, of which the "Falernian" was the choicest; and the products of particular vineyards were as highly esteemed in Athens and Rome, as the Claret and Metternich wines now are in London and Paris. The wines of antiquity were often villainously adulterated. The art of "doctoring" the juice of the grape so far from being a modern invention that it dates back to the siege of Troy. Helon, the trick and frail, is said to have learned the art in Egypt, and to have practised it for the sake of increasing the exhilarating properties of the wine also gave to the defenders of the city after a hard battle with the Greeks.

The safest and best of all exhilarants is good wine. Many physicians and matrons suppose we must have foreign wine. There is one hundred times the quantity of wines exported from France, Spain and Germany, than can be manufactured there from the quantity of grapes. There is but one safeguard, and that is to use our native vines. Imported wines now pay a heavy duty, and a bottle of real Port or Sherry can only be obtained at a high price. There is no duty or tax on native wines—therefore, in the name of purity and economy, let us have our own native wines.

Messrs. Bennett, Pieters & Co., of Chicago, always have an assorted stock of fine imported wines in U. S. bonded warehouses, from the most reliable houses of France, Spain and Germany, also brandies, gins, rums, &c., and have for the past three years been making extensive preparations for the manufacture of home-made wines. They have the most extensive arrangements with fruit growers, and in the proper season they gather strawberries, cherries, peaches, blackberries, raspberries &c. &c., to an enormous amount. Their strawberry, cherry, blackberry, raspberry and muscat wines far exceed many of the imported wines, both in purity and exhilarating effects. Many of these home-made wines are being largely adulterated, and many a bottle of "cherry wine" is sold, which never had a drop of cherry juice in it. Buy none but those with the unmistakable label of Bennett Pieters & Co. These gentlemen are men of high respectability, and guarantee every article from their house, pure and unadulterated.

HEINSTRICK'S INIMITABLE HAIR RESTORATIVE.
It is not a DYE, but restores gray hair to its original color, by supplying the capillary tubes with natural sustenance impaired by age or disease. All instantaneous dyes are composed of harsh caustic, destroying the vitality and beauty of the hair, and afford of themselves no dressing. Heinstrick's Inimitable Coloring not only restores hair to its natural color by an easy process, but gives the hair a luxuriant beauty, promotes its growth, prevents its falling off, cures dandruff, and imparts health and pleasantness to the head. It has stood the test of time; being the original hair coloring, and is constantly increasing in favor. Used by both gentlemen and ladies. It is sold by all respectable dealers, or can be procured by them of the commercial agents, D. B. BARNES & CO., 222 Broadway, New York. Two shillings, 50 cents and 25.

The Harvard Tribune tells the following story of the marriage of an eloping couple from Russellville, at New London, the other day:

The bride's father arrived on horseback with several other cavalry, and after some skirmishing, secured his daughter, and started off with her. The groom pursued and re-took the prisoner, winning a double victory.

Says a World correspondent: A few days after the battles of the Wilderness, a despatch from Gen. Sheridan was received by the President, in which he was requested to say to Gen. Grant that a box of ten thousand dollars in gold had been made that Grant would capture Richmond within five days from the date of the battles.

FARMERS, TAKE NOTICE!

The undersigned are having made at Beloit, Wis., one hundred of these Reapers known as the Cheap, or Webber Reaper!

Notwithstanding the increase of nearly double in price over other years of the material put in Reapers, we are going to sell for 1894, at about the same price as before. Our prices at the shop are $110 cash for single Reapers, for Reapers and Mowers $140. We are making City Mowers which will be warranted to do good work. They will be made of steel or of the Duck's pattern, except the hinges.

Those buying Reapers alone can have Mowers the next year, or thereafter for the same price, as the difference between a reaper and mower.

We do not claim to be the only two-horse Reaper in use. Notwithstanding a great many are used with one horse, they ought to use the one-horse, and some of them six, to do as easy to the horse as one-horse, to two-horse.

Those who in your order call to be sure of a machine, as positively only one hundred of them will be built, and we will warrant each and every machine to Work Well in all Kinds of Grain!

The Reapers will be different from last year. They will be the over hanging reel, and have six bats instead of four keeping the reel, holding the grain to the sickle steady.

They will be shipped to any depot in Wisconsin or Illinois. Ten per cent will be added to cash on time, for freight out to their destination.

These Reapers will be sent to the depot on the 1st of September, 1894, the balance of the order on the 1st of October, 1894.

Those buying Reapers will be sent to the depot on the 1st of September, 1894, the balance of the order on the 1st of October, 1894.
